

Welcome to The Knapp and Papermill nature reserve

Worcestershire
Wildlife Trust

This unique nature reserve lies in and around a winding stream valley with old woods, meadows and an orchard.

Dormouse

The circular nature trail is just under two miles long and there are connecting footpaths and permissive paths to take you into the wider countryside. Most paths are unsurfaced and can be uneven, muddy and steep in places. There is a set of steps and we ask you to please leave gates as you find them as there can be livestock grazing the meadows.

We do not charge for entry but we encourage you to make a donation. Donations, memberships and gifts left in wills help to cover the cost of protecting this beautiful nature reserve and many more like it across Worcestershire.

Did you know..?

Knapp is old English for 'hill' (knap) and there was a papermill along the Leigh Brook, below Papermill Cottage (on the nature trail).

Help protect wildlife

Thank you for helping to protect wildlife while you enjoy your visit by...

- ...keeping dogs on leads at all times and taking away their waste
- ...sticking to paths
- ...staying out of the brook

What we do

We work with other landowners, managers and communities to restore, recreate and reconnect fragmented natural habitats to achieve a landscape where wildlife can flourish and people can lead happier and healthier lives.

We're part of a national network of The Wildlife Trusts, protecting wildlife across the UK.

Protecting wildlife where you live
